

STATE BAPTIST CONVENTION HERE NOV. 14-17

Message of Welcome Extended to Baptists

GEORGE DAY SAYS
"ALOHA" TO HOUNDS

George Day on Providence Road doesn't approve of hounds that insist on running away so he is shipping his two hounds back to Alabama. He has only had them a week but they have not behaved properly, as good 'possum hunting hounds should, so back they go.

Thursday night Mr. Day took his hounds on a 'possum hunt to Canada mountain. Both got lost. One was recovered Thursday night the other didn't get back till 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and then he had to be brought back.

Jess Bull and Chas. Hamlin went out in search of the missing hound yesterday and found him tied up on the mountain. Natives said they were hunting and found him.

It is thought that Mr. Day will order more hounds.

FARRINGTON IS LOSING GROUND

Illinois U. M. W. Head, in Second Place on Nominating Ballot.

By Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 4.—A definite trend away from the leadership of Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Mine Workers, was revealed here today when tellers at the State headquarters made a report showing Farrington had received second place in nomination on the miners' ballots.

MISS MARY MACSWINNEY IS ARRESTED IN DUBLIN

By Associated Press. DUBLIN, Nov. 4.—Miss Mary MacSwiney is among several persons arrested in the House after a pitched battle between opponents and the National army troops who were presumably seeking to arrest Eamonn de Valera, reported hiding in this city. A search failed to reveal the Republican leader.

Lambert Builds $4,000 Garage.

Dave Lambert is building a new $4,000 garage for the Howe and Lambert Motor Co., at Stoney Fork Junction. The new home for the company will be much larger than the one occupied at the present time.

STEAMERS BURN IN CINCINNATI HARBOR TODAY

Four Ships and Two Docks, With Total of $400,000 Loss, in Fire Started This Morning.

BLAZE SPREAD WITH SPEED OF WIND

By Associated Press. CINCINNATI, Nov. 4.—The Ohio River steamers Island Queen and Morning Star, are on fire in a local harbor. Other nearby steamers hastened to safety on the Kentucky side of the river.

The Island Queen and Morning Star burned at the docks. Two other steamers, Tocomia and Christ Green, also burned. The loss is placed at $300,000. The blaze started in Morning Star and spread almost with the speed of the wind. Two docks caught on fire and were destroyed. The whole river front for a time was ablaze.

REVIVAL AT FERN LAKE CHAPEL STARTS TOMORROW NIGHT

The Rev. Calvin Miller of Crab Orchard, Ky., preached at Miller's Chapel at Fern Lake last night. About 250 people heard him. Revival services of the church start Sunday night.

This Missionary Baptist church was organized at Fern Lake in 1906 and is steadily growing in number of people. Two Sunday school services are held each Sunday with an average attendance of 120. Mrs. Cornelia Lambert of Middlesboro is superintendent of the Sunday school at the church and Chas. Cook of Fern Lake is superintendent of the Sunday school held at the school house. About $30 has been raised towards a community Christmas tree at the school house.

MIDDLESBORO COLORED FOOT- BALL TEAM LOSES TO KNOXVILLE

The football game between the Middlesboro colored high school and the Knoxville colored high school here yesterday afternoon resulted in a score of 12 to 6 in favor of the visitors. The visitors were outclassed on the line but did better work behind the line than their own team.

Prof. Reid of the Knoxville high school has proposed the Middlesboro school as a member of the Eastern Tennessee Athletic Association, composed of Chattanooga, Johnsonville, Knoxville and other Tennessee colored schools. This is because of the interest Professor Dameron of the local school has shown in athletics.

TAZEWELL

Mr. E. T. Runions was spending Saturday and Sunday with the Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Harber of Pennington Gap, Va. He attended some revival services while he was there.

Daniel Carter of Sycamore, former circuit clerk of this county, was transacting business in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evans of Lone Mountain re all smiles. It is a fine boy.

The Ladies' Missionary Society was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Yookum with a Halloween party Monday night. The reception rooms for both ladies and gentlemen were tastefully decorated in colors of autumn and green. The children especially enjoyed the ghost features of the program. Their curiosity knew no bounds when General Fulkerson entered, attired in the costume of a very old and odd looking granny woman, with long stem pipe in hand and carrying her cane under her arm. No one was able to guess the identity of Mr. Fulkerson, so successfully was his makeup. The ladies were delightedly entertained with music which was provided by Lue Maise, Curtis Runions, and Clyde Robinson. Mr. Maise is a noted fiddler, having at one time won first prize at a Fiddler's Contest, held at the old Dixie theatre here. Mr. Maise and Mr. Robinson took the leading with violin and banjo, while Curtis Runions added the finishing touch with guitar, second. After two delightful hours had been spent—two hours of old time music, which thrilled the minds of the listeners with memories of the by gone days, luncheon was served. Another half hour was spent in entertaining the ladies, which were about thirty in number, after which the party turned their faces homeward, delighted with the evening's entertainment.

Mrs. T. B. Rice and little daughter Lorine, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Runions Sunday.

Major Roberts, son of former Gov. Roberts, accompanied by Miss Myrtle Cook, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Harrison of Sandlick. A special dinner was prepared for Mr. Roberts and Miss Cook, which was greatly enjoyed.

Miss Lucy Rose of Caney Creek, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Dally Mannon. Mrs. D. S. Garland of Nobelville, Ind., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Daniel B. Carter.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Foley of Sandlick are spending the week end with home folks.

A Halloween party was given for the children at the Claiborne High school building on Tuesday night. A very pleasant evening is reported.

Tangible Evidence in Hall-Mills Case When Man Affirms Most of Mrs. Jane Gibson's Statement.

WAS LINK AUTHORITIES HAVE BEEN SEEKING

By Associated Press. NEW BRUNSWICK, Nov. 4.—Authorities investigating the Hall-Mills murder case today claimed they had located the driver of one of the automobiles seen near the Phillips Farm the night of September 14, when the Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were slain. A statement from this man, while not containing an account of the murders, was said to substantiate in many associations Mrs. Jane Gibson, who claims to have witnessed the murders and identified the slayer and his woman companion. This is the tangible evidence authorities were seeking before presenting the case to the grand jury, officials said.

PINEVILLE WINNER AGAIN YESTERDAY

Defeats Clark County High 57 To 26 in One of Season's Prettiest Games.

PINEVILLE, Nov. 4.—Pineville High won from the Clark County High 57 to 26 in the football game at Pineville yesterday. The Winchester men had a good team and Pineville was outclassed in forward passing. They played a clean game throughout, fast and snappy, though lacking the fight that Pineville had, and they made only one first down other than forward passes. Pineville ran round ends at will.

Pineville's interference really won the game, sweeping end runs from punt formation, long runs made on forward passes. Winchester made all her scores in the first half, three touchdowns on passes and one on a recovered fumble. They did not score in the second half because Pineville had solved their pass game.

Pineville's line was a stone wall. McDonald and Asher started on end runs. Ed Smith and Miracle plunged the line for consistent gains. Captain Isaacs was at his best on the defense. Carnes and Hoskins never failed to turn the play in. Green, Rollins and Wilson allowed only one plunge to go through the center of all the line, and gains on end were due largely to the interference of Green and Rollins.

The lineup follows:

| Pineville          | Clark County |
|--------------------|--------------|
| Isaacs center      | Wagner       |
| Green guard        | Estes        |
| Rollins guard      | Swift        |
| J. Carnes tackle   | Gamboe       |
| Wilson tackle      | Stevenson    |
| T. Carnes end      | Boone        |
| Hoskins end        | Besuden      |
| Earl quarter back  | Harvey       |
| Smith right half   | Hagen        |
| McDonald left half | McEwan       |
| Miracle fullback   | Scribner     |

Porter was referee, Jones, line man, Gene Martin, umpire and Jim Phillips and Mercer Bell, time keepers.

Hotel Cumberland Special Announcement.

All acceptances for the opening banquet of the Cumberland Hotel, Thursday, November 9, 1922, must be in not later than Tuesday, November 7, 1922, at 12, noon. George Schenck, manager.

Over 1000 delegates and visitors are expected here next week for the eighty-sixth annual meeting of the General Association of Kentucky Baptists. The convention will be held Nov. 14 to 17 with the sessions in the First Baptist Church. Elaborate plans are being made for the entertainment of the visitors. A special feature will be the Laymen's banquet to be held at the New Cumberland Hotel, and to which between 400 and 500 laymen of the state are invited.

At this convention 1573 Baptist churches will be represented, or 267,000 Kentucky Baptists. This is the largest religious gathering held in the state and many of the best orators and leading men of the south will be in attendance at the meeting.

Ex-senator W. A. Frost, one of the country's most able orators, will open the convention. Senator Frost is present moderator of the church. He will be remembered for the leading stand he took in the prohibition fight in congress. Dr. L. L. Henson, pastor of the Covington First Baptist Church, will deliver the annual sermon.

Reports will be made at this convention in the orphan's home, home, state and foreign missions, the 75 million campaign, buildings, hospitals, educational activities and Sunday school work.

Needless to say the best of Baptist and the best of southern hospitality will be extended to these delegates. The town will be beautified and decorated in honor of their coming and it will be a big occasion for Middlesboro.

THE NEW CUMBERLAND HOTEL

The new Cumberland Hotel has promised to take care of 100 delegates to the General Association convention. Tables will be placed in the lobbies for the different committees, and one will be especially assigned for a committee to direct to private homes any delegates in excess of those the hotel can accommodate. In this manner the hotel will be headquarters for the convention delegates.

The Cumberland Hotel will have its formal opening November 9, and the Baptist delegates will probably be the first to fill the rooms. The hotel, built by a Middlesboro corporation at a cost of $250,000, and furnished by M. Todes, the lessee, at a cost of more than $60,000, is declared to be the most handsomely equipped hotel in all Kentucky. It has four stories with 126 rooms.

The three upper floors are devoted to guest rooms and baths. The main floor has the lobby, the dining room and private dining rooms, the ladies' parlor, the writing room and the kitchen, while below are the grill room, barber shop and billiard room. The kitchen is especially attractive, with all equipment of the most up-to-date character, and everything done with electricity. The dining room is furnished in mahogany and old blue with gorgeous hangings. A main feature of the lobby is the beautiful $1000 English grandfather's clock, just installed. The ladies' parlor is perhaps the most beautiful room in the building. It is furnished in Italian Renaissance style. An imported console table with an onyx inlaid top stand under a lovely Italian mirror, and two tall chairs with handpainted backs and carved arms and legs match the lovely center table.

HONEYMOONERS ABROAD

BY ZOE BECKLEY

"Do you hear?" Edna shook him gently, annoyed that he did not reassure her about the good time, the business less time, they should have in Paris. Of all places, Paris, Paris just for a few days?"

"Promise me, Jack, I'll forget Cousin But Jack's eagerness to be up and after Cousin, his keyed-up nerves and his anxiety to make good with his company kept him from making the reply Edna wanted.

"Do my best, Eddy, but you know—"

Abruptly she turned away from her lips pressed into angry thinness. "All right, Jack—" her voice was pitched low, but Jack was feeling her to be unreasonably insistent and dis- garded the danger signal, "all right; but I don't think you are treating me fairly."

"I think I am; I'm doing it all for you."

It was in this mood that they met on the Paris express the Stanleys, a handsome, youngish couple. American in pep and daring, continental in so- phistication, French in flirtation.

They had no visible occupation in life except an international good time—money no object.

They struck up an easy acquaintance with the Dureys in the dining car and in the Dureys' harassed mood were rather welcomed than otherwise.

ark Stanley, handsome, with prema- turely gray hair and rosy face, de- voted himself at once to Edna, and knew her. Nella Stanley, raven-haired and spectacular attractive made Jack dance attendance.

Edna was at first frightened, then amazed, for instead of finding mere amusement in Nella Stanley's bland- ishments Jack seemed to taw her se- riously. She ended by feeling real an- ger, and to her own surprise, a desire to punish him. Her weapon was at hand.

The hysterical quality of Edna's animation was not noticed by either of the men.

It was enough for ark Stanley that pretty woman listened appreciative- ly, smiled and looked with sparkling eyes into his.

It was enough for Jack that his wife was capable of flirting with a stranger, her preoccupation and the fe- libility of her glitter escaping him.

By the time the two couples had reached Paris they were calling one another by their first names and had decided to stop at the same hotel.

When the train pulled in, Edna's pulses were beating high.

Paris—her lifelong dream. And here it was, as inexpressibly charming, as light as its touch of wickedness, as frank as dazzling thing as the most- enthusiastic picture of it ever drawn.

She grew hazy with the life of the boulevards, the cafes, the effort- less gaiety, the Paris of dress and exquisite cookery, the charm of an an- cient crooked streets, the splendor of the Rue de la Paix.

She scarcely saw Jack. She went everywhere with the Stanleys.

"London! Eddy—I've got to go — and finish this business."

"Edna's breath came quickly, but she answered steadily enough:

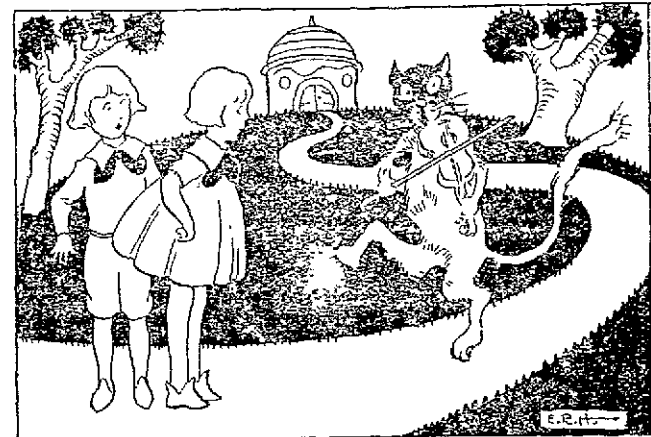

"All right, Jack. I am going to stay here."

The Stanleys exchanged a quick stealthy glance of triumph.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Goodness alive! How did you get here?" asked Nancy.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE

Nancy and Nick looked and looked and looked for Mother Goose's broom. They were still up in the sky on the star called Jupiter, a great big bright one where a lot of Mother Goose's people lived.

Pretty soon they heard music.

"It's a fiddle," said Nancy. "It makes me feel like dancing."

"It must be the Pied Piper of Hamelin," said Nick.

"Or King Cole," remarked Nancy. "Perhaps it's one of his fiddlers."

"Or it might be Tom the Piper's son who learned to play when he was young," said Nick.

But to their amazement it was none of these, for along the road came a cat, it that very instant, playing a fiddle and doing a jig.

And now you know who it was, my dears?

"Hi diddle diddle, the Cat and the Fiddle," of course.

"Goodness alive! How did you get here?" asked Nancy.

"I'm looking for the cow that jumped over the moon," answered the cat.

"I feel that my playing caused all the trouble, and her master needs her. Also, the dish that ran off with the spoon hasn't come back. Did you happen to see either of them?"

"No!" said Nancy, shaking her head. "Everything is lost, it seems. Mother Goose has lost her broom, too, and the cobwebs on the sky are so thick that people on the earth think they are clouds. They say she has started to ride one of her geese."

"No doubt," answered the cat solemnly, blinking her eyes. "But I must be on my way. Don't forget to look for the cow, will you? Or the dish! As for the spoon, some one told me they had seen a dipper in the sky. Maybe that's it! I'll go and look."

AROUND THE CORNER

By Berton Braley

It ain't so much the things you get that makes you like to live; The fun of your possessions is a fun that fugitive, And nearly every blessing comes in time to be a bore— But the pleasure lies in guessing what the future has in store, And that's what makes tomorrow such a day of mystery, For just around the corner is the thing you want to see, We live in expectation, and though dreams of yesterday Today have gone a-glimmer in a disappointing way, We still continue curious and eager, as we seek What may occur tomorrow or the middle of next week. Today is full as yesterday—but still we are aglow For just around the corner is the thing we want to know, What's just around the corner may be nothing new or strange, But erer in our heart of hearts we nurse the hope of change, And just beyond our vision there's an undetermined chance O glorious adventure and of fairy-tale romance, And so we keep on going with a thrilled expectant mind, For just around the corner is the thing we hope to find!

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

glandular treatment to reveal its effects, and as yet it is unknown whether these effects are more than briefly temporary.

SECOND—The Fountain of Youth operation consists of transplanting interstitial glands from a chimpanzee into a human. These glands form only one unit of a chain of at least eight other endocrine glands in the human body—thyroid, adrenals, pituitary, pineal, pancreas, etc.

Tinkering with any one of these glands, which are very delicately adjusted and balanced, may upset the balance and affect the other glands, with decided and unexpected effects on the general health of body and mind.

The old gentlemen who are testing out the monkey gland operation are admirable and daring experimenters in uncertainty.

It is estimated that three or four New Year resolutions have not been broken yet.

Best thing about winter is, spring always comes right after it.

An excellent book to carry on a trip is mileage book.

Twenty years ago today we were discussing prohibition, but not as much as we are today.

Immodest bathing suits are gone. Immodest divorce suits have not.

Scientist finds the average mouse runs about ten miles a day. Read this to the women folks.

The trouble is with taking things as they come, you never can tell what is coming.

Today four machines at Cleveland can empty a vessel and load it at the rate of 3000 tons an hour.

The actual mining and transportation of iron ore have also been speeded up by labor-saving devices, the same as handling the ore at the docks.

All this is generally accepted as more economical.

However, in the days when iron ore was handled by wheelbarrow and hand shovel, the ore cost $4 a ton at Lake Erie docks.

Today the price is between $5 and $6 a ton.

It looks as if, the more economical the process the higher the cost.

You find the same state of contradiction in wheat. In 1890 the cash price of wheat at Chicago was as low as 66 cents a bushel. Today, even with farm prices far too low compared with other prices, wheat costs a lot more than it did in 1890.

All this, despite the introduction of tremendous labor-saving devices and processes in growing the wheat and shipping it to market.

In general, it seems that labor-saving devices tend to increase selling price, on the average and in the long run.

This is counteracted by two important things:

FIRST. The buying power of the dollar has changed. A dollar represents less buying power today, than 50 cents did when grandpa was a boy. Every one has more dollars, too, so the dollar is not a fair measure of price.

SECOND: The introduction of labor-saving devices and processes has released human labor for other work. This enables humanity to produce thousands of articles for general use, where in the old days such commodities were numbered by the hundreds. We of today have a wider assortment of articles, both necessities and luxuries, than a few generations ago.

That is the long-range trend, a higher standard of living. Price is secondary. When a dollar would buy almost anything, as old men put it, the trouble was, no one had the dollar.

MONKEY GLANDS

Glad news for the tottering old men who are trying to renew their youth by the monkey gland route:

Dr. Serge Voronoff, the monkey gland specialist of Paris, enthusiastically reports that one of his patients has certainly recovered from 25 to 30 years of lost youth.

This patient is Arthur Evelyn Liardet of London, England. Twenty months ago, when he was 74, Arthur hobbled over to Paris and had Doc Voronoff sew some monkey glands in his abdomen. This operation usually is performed slightly below the appendix and just under the skin. The glands, absorbed, travel through the system and rejuvenate lost powers.

Arthur, now 75, reports that he is very active, rising at 6 and taking a cold bath every morning and walking briskly eight miles after breakfast. He says he's full of pep all day.

And grasp this: Arthur, who formerly was almost entirely bald, is now growing a heavy head of hair.

What is one man's meat may be another man's poison.

What rejuvenates Arthur Evelyn Liardet might have opposite effects on another.

So far, only a very few old men have experimented with the monkey gland operation. Their cases are exceptional. The average result (a general rule) will not be known until the operation has been performed on many thousands.

Barring his new growth of hair, Arthur's evidences of a restoration of vigor might easily result from imagination or self-hypnotism by his faith in the power of the glands.

People who are considering taking a chance on the monkey gland operation should keep this in mind and weigh it cautiously:

FIRST—It takes several years for

THE WAGES OF SIN.

A cartoon by Burr published in a recent issue of the Knoxville Journal and Tribune bearing the caption, THE WAGES OF SIN, pictured Death sitting back in an easy chair, perusing the headlines of a daily newspaper.

Everywhere was writ death and destruction, tragedy and trouble. His face bore a sardonic smile and one can easily frame his thought, I GET THE ALL.

There is nothing more beautiful and lovely than real love, just as there is nothing more damning and deadly than an illicit love.

Scarcely a day passes but some new scandal is aired in the pages of the daily press. They come not only to the low but to the high places as well. And too often one or more of the figures in these affairs are those, who by their calling, are supposed to be mentors and guides for the multitudes.

There must be an abatement of this specific evil if the homes are not to be undermined and the nation perish, even as great nations of the world have succumbed when vice and sin held unquestioned sway.

That the remedy lies in education to a higher appreciation of duty is the opinion of many, and this is no doubt true, but we are old-fashioned enough to believe that the home where the fires of the family altar are kept burning brightly is the safest refuge from temptation and sin.

There are some leaders who bring down upon them, as no one else, the fierce, blazing light of publicity. The very fact that they are such outstanding figures in the communities which and wherein they serve makes it all the more essential that they withstand temptation. Every red-blooded man understands the temptations to which they sometimes are subjected, but the public is quick to condemn and is slow to condone an offense on their part. The fact that so few fall where so many are tempted is in itself a tribute to the worth and integrity of so many of them, who, like Enoch of old, walk with God.—The Journal and Tribune, Knoxville.

LABOR-SAVING DEVICES.

Are we kidding ourselves when we talk about the great advantages derived from labor-saving devices?

The Pennsylvania Railroad prints this on the cover of its dining car menu:

Millions of tons of ore are carried in solid trainloads over the Pennsylvania system every year to feed the blast furnaces of the iron and steel industry.

In order to transfer the ore from cargo boats of the Great Lakes to railroad cars, the Pennsylvania system operates giant electric unloading machines at its ore docks on Lake Erie.

Prior to 1832 this work was done by handshovel and wheel barrow at the rate of about one hundred tons a day.

KENTUCKY BAPTIST CHILDREN'S HOME

M George Moore, Supt.
The Kentucky Baptist Children's Home is the pride of Kentucky Baptists. This institution is owned and controlled by the general Association of Baptists in Kentucky.
Located in the beautiful valley of the Nolin river on the L and N railroad fifty miles south of Louisville near Glendale, Kentucky, surrounded by 500 acres of fertile land makes it an ideal home for children.

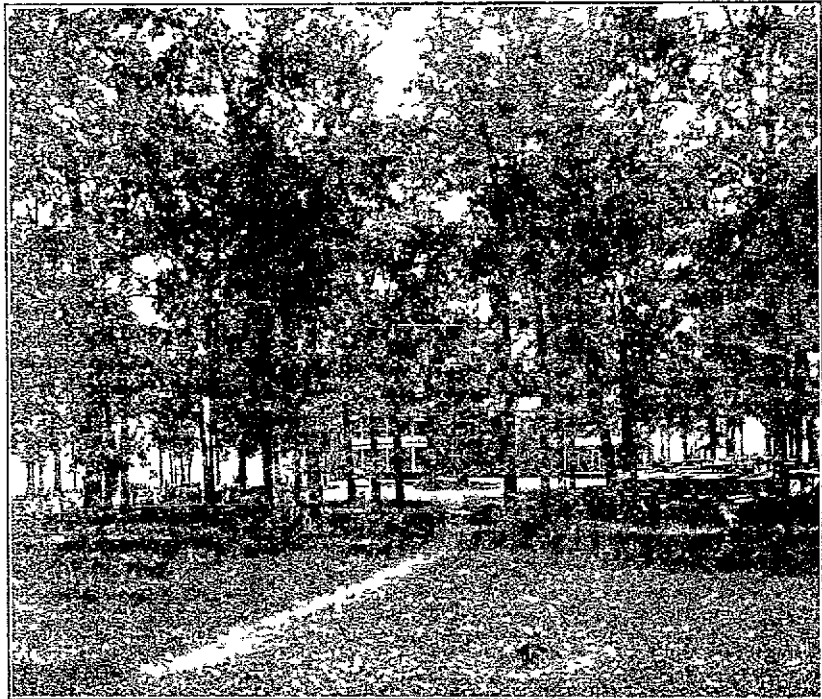

This institution since the 75 million home became effective, is supported from that fund but the amount received from this source is not sufficient to meet our running expenses and furnish the needed equipment. The home is growing in numbers from week to week and thus growing in its needs. At the present time in spite of the fact that within the last few years we have added two wings to our main building we need more room to care for the children appealing to us for a home and a chance in life. We are now caring for 150 children, 355 have found shelter here since the home was established June 3, 1915. Ground has already been broken for another building and we trust in the near future to have this building completed and we will then have room for 100 more children. We feel that by location, management, health conditions, and moral surroundings make this an ideal home for children and a place where they are not only reared and educated but fitted for Christian citizenship.

Requests left the Home by friends of the institution have proven a great blessing to it, these bequests have enabled us to enlarge our farm and improve the equipment for same. We appeal to friends of this worthy institution to remember it in their wills and to support it loyally while they live. No service that we render to Christ can be more important or more blessed than the caring for helpless children. Our future is as bright as the promises of God are sure.

KENTUCKY WOMAN'S MISSIONARY UNION

Mrs. C. W. Elsey, President
In May, 1888, Kentucky was one of the ten states which entered into the organization at Richmond, Va., of the Executive Committee of the Woman's Missionary Societies Auxiliary to the Southern Baptist Convention. Later this organization became the Woman's Missionary Union. Our own Miss Fliza Broadus was one of the first vice-presidents.

Kentucky Baptist women met in connection with the General Association at Independence in 1888 and these informal mass meetings during the general Association continued until 1903 when at Winchester, a regular organization was effected called first the Woman's Missionary Association, with Mrs. B. P. Proctor Bowling

MRS. C. W. EUSEY,
Cynthiana, Ky.

Green, president. For thirty three years the Kentucky W. M. U. depended upon volunteer service on the part of its officers, then for two years had a corresponding secretary with but a small salary. In May, 1913, Mrs. Kate Coleman Hinkle became corresponding secretary and Mrs. Janie Cice Bose, office secretary—the latter at first for only half time, but later for full time.

In November, 1920 the Kentucky W. M. U. for the first time held its meeting at a time and place separate from the General Association. The Union is as before available to the General Association and the reasons for changing the time and place of meeting were that the sessions might be less interrupted by coming and going that there might be more time for business and helpful exchange of ideas that there might be opportunity for many women to attend who could not leave home while their husbands were attending the General Association.

Since 1907 the Woman's Missionary Union has placed emphasis on the holding of at least one Mission Study Class per year in each society. No society can become A. 1 unless it has such class which is in addition to the monthly Bible Study.

Last year no fewer than 339 class

Drink Water If Kidneys Hurt

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back pains or Bladder bothers.

Too much meat may produce uric acid, says a well known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork, they get sluggish, the eliminative passages clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back, or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night, when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to help neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus often ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drunk, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to help to keep the kidneys clean and active. Drink plenty of water at all times.

or were reported. The Mission Study Course has been taken privately by large numbers of women who could not be in classes. During the last year 1602 seals for successful examination in a recommended book were awarded, furthermore, 4 women completed a course of six books, 8 a course for twelve books, and 4 hold honor certificates for having completed fifteen books and taught Mission Study Classes. Increasing interest is being manifested in mission study and constant inquiries are made by those who have not had a previous study course.

Our women are alert in their efforts to put information into the hands of a larger number of our people by securing an increased number of subscriptions for our own magazine, "Royal Service," "Home and Foreign Fields" and the "Western Recorder."

Five years ago last May, Mrs. Janie Cice Bose became corresponding secretary. Contributions reported for the year following amounted to $39,435.48. The first year of the 75 Million Campaign period they rose to $273,481.69, the second year, to $340,330.79, and last year amounted to $296,617.00. And besides all this the Kentucky W. M. U.'s contribution of supplies for foreign hospitals, was the most valuable of any reported from the southern States.

As evidence of the amazing growth of this organization it is only necessary to recall that, during last year, 143 new societies were organized—97 being young people's organizations. This makes the present total W. M. U. organizations in Kentucky 1212, of which number 513 are for young people. An increase of 3152 titheholders had been secured May 1st in the membership of the organizations reporting.

WOMANLY TROUBLES

'Twas Hard for Her to Stop Work,
But This Texas Lady Says She Had to Go to Bed.—
Helped by Cardui.

Salado, Texas.—"I suffered a great deal with womanly troubles," says Miss Ira Lillian Hart, of Route 1, this place. "I would, for a day or two, feel drowsy, stupid and lifeless; didn't feel like doing my work."

"I would suffer pains in my sides and back, and very severe headaches."

"I am the housekeeper, and it was very hard for me to stop, but I would get in such a misery I would have to go to bed. I heard of Cardui, and that it was good for this suffering. The very first bottle I took seemed to help me. I did not suffer near so much, so I sent for the second. It did so much good for me, I can't say enough for Cardui, for it certainly was a friend in need."

Women who feel the need of something to help relieve, or prevent, such troubles, should profit by the experience of thousands of other women, and try this mild, harmless tonic.

CHURCHES NEED PUBLICITY PLAN

Constant Advertising Is Necessary To Produce Lasting Results—Hit And Miss Plan Fails.

By Associated Press

Chicago, Nov. 4.—A well thought out and prepared publicity program that is constructive and consecutive is the only one that will bring results for the church, declared the Rev. Elwood Rowser, pastor of the First Westminster Presbyterian church of Toledo, O., speaking here before the National Conference on church publicity.

A hit and miss program will usually miss results, he said. To put one advertisement in the paper, to send out a special hand bill or to arrange one unique program for a special day, will not produce sufficient results to justify the expenditure. Constant work is necessary to produce results.

"Four things a man must learn to do if he is to make his publicity true," he said. "First is preparation. To advertise a service that has not been prepared is to kill the future possibility of progress.

"Second is presentation. We must feel that what we have prepared is worthy to present before we can successfully present it. If our representation is not convincing our preparation is paralyzed.

"Third is conservation. If there has been care in preparation, there will be purpose in presentation, which, if properly directed, will result in conservation. The purpose of all publicity is to save worthwhile things that are produced.

"Fourth is cooperation. Publicity in the Sunday school that fails to advertise the church, or publicity in the church that fails to advertise the Sunday school is only partially successful. The whole policy in a sentence, is this: Preparation produces results if conservation follows careful presentation."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO HAVE 2 DAYS' VACATION THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving vacation for the pupils of the Middlesboro Public schools has been named November 30 and December 1, according to action taken by the school board Thursday night in its regular session.

The building committee reported good progress on the four new school buildings.

WOMAN IN PRISON WITH 2 SMALL SONS IS RELEASED

RENEVILLE, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Myra Davis, who was placed in the Pineville jail September 29 from Magistrate Field's court at Fonda, on a charge of having liquor in her possession, was released Wednesday by order of T. G. Anderson, county attorney, to the United States Court, Judge Rollins, Federal Commissioner, immediately released the woman on $100 bond because she had with her during the 30 days in jail her two small sons, Philip, 7, and Eddie, 4. Her trial was set for December 15.

SHOOTING AFFRAY AT WALLINS CREEK MONDAY

William Yonce was shot and seriously wounded Monday at Wallins Creek by W. O. Hill. Yonce went to meet the train, expecting to meet a friend of his. He met Hill who displayed his gun, and Yonce tried to get it away from him, but failed, and in the struggle to obtain possession of the gun, Hill shot Yonce, the bullet entering his breast and lodging in the lower apex of the heart. The bullet was removed by Dr. Cawood at the Harlan hospital.

Hill has been in trouble recently, and at the time of the shooting was out on bond for having shot another man previous to this time. He was brought to the County Jail at Harlan, and released on a $1000 bond for his appearance in the Harlan Criminal Court.

This is the sixth person shot within 30 feet of where Yonce fell during the last six months.

Both men admitted to have been drinking. Yonce's condition is critical.

Secretary Weeks has been arguing for months and months.

"AS THE FATHER HATH SENT ME, EVEN SO I SEND YOU."

John 20:21

The most important business in all the world is leading men to Jesus. The commission is to the churches of Christ and upon them rests the responsibility, whether they realize it or not.

Wonderful results have attended the efforts of Southern Baptists in the last few years, compared with former years. There were 260,000 baptisms last year, and yet we are only playing at the job.

Probably not more than 750,000 out of the three million and more Baptists in the South are enlisted in this great business, or have contributed in any way or had any part in the carrying out of the Great Commission.

Crucial is the period before Kentucky Baptists in the coming year, passing as we are through a time of reconstruction and readjustment of all our national interests. Unless we are alert to realize this situation, failure in a pronounced degree will be the inevitable result.

On November fourteenth the General Association of Baptists will meet in their annual convocation at Middlesboro for the purpose of attending to the business of the denomination in perfecting plans for the ongoing of the Kingdom. The importance of the meeting this year demands a great outpouring of people, giving it impetus and enthusiasm.

Let us not go in our own strength, for it will avail us nothing. Above all else, let out good Baptist hosts in Kentucky pray, as never before, that the Holy Spirit may direct the efforts that are put forth in devising ways and means for carrying out the Great Commission to the Glory of God.

CAMPAIGN HAS MADE POSSIBLE

PHASE OF GENERAL WORK

GAIN 500,000 NEW MEMBERS

Effort Will Be Made to Enlist These and All Other Baptists in Share in Forward Movement During November

Total cash collections on the Baptist 75 Million Campaign up to May 1, 1922, had reached the sum of $35-
152,211.69, according to the general Campaign headquarters. This represents an advance of nearly $20,000,000 over what Southern Baptists did for their general missionary, educational Campaign.

and benevolent work for the three years preceding the Campaign.

The contribution of larger gifts to religious work has been accompanied by larger spiritual results in the local churches, it is pointed out. For instance, Southern Baptists baptized 150,000 more converts during the first three years of the Campaign than they did in the three years before, gained 3,000 new Sunday schools and 400,000 new pupils, enhanced the value of their local church property by $32,000,000, enlarged their contributions to local causes by $22,390,000, and increased their contributions to all causes by $43,480,490.

Baptist Institutions Grow
Some other phases of denominational progress made possible by the Campaign include increasing the number of Baptist hospitals in the South from 12 to 19, with three others under construction and four more definitely planned; strengthening of 17
Baptist orphanages and the establishment of two new ones, lifting $3,000-000 indebtedness on 119 Baptist schools, colleges and seminaries, completion and projection of permanent improvements there in the sum of $4,000,000, and the addition of substantial sums to the endowment funds.
Over 2,500 ministerial students are enrolled at Southern Baptist schools.

Church Loan Fund Raised
Among the outstanding accomplishments in the work of the Home Mission Board are the aiding of 1,000 churches in building new houses of worship, the completion of the million-dollar Church Building Loan Fund, strengthening the work among the foreigners and Indians and the 38 Mountain mission schools. The Board has employed an average of 1,495 workers during the Campaign and reports for that period 124,832 baptisms, 218,371 additions to churches,
2,276 Sunday schools and 759 churches organized, and 1,409 houses of worship built or repaired.

On the foreign fields the equipment for mission work has been practically doubled, more than 250 new foreign missionaries have been sent out, more than 400 new native workers have been employed, and the Board has entered the new fields of Spain, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary, Roumania, Southern Russia, Palestine and Siberia. The Board reports for the period of the Campaign 117 new churches on the foreign fields, 21,728 baptisms, 211 new Sunday schools, gain of 17,576 pupils, native contributions of $1,003-390.68, and 529,642 treatments administered by medical missionaries.

Another result of the Campaign is that the Relief and Annuity Board, which is seeking to care for the aged dependent ministers and their families, has been enabled to double the number of such persons helped and the amount that is given these beneficiaries. Last year the Board was able to dispense $128,966 among needy ministers. It has invested assets of $1,149,088.

Receive 500,000 New Members

More than 500,000 new members have been received into the local Baptist churches of the South since the Campaign began, and in the hope of enlisting all these in the Campaign, as well as reaching the older members of the churches who have not shared in the forward movement heretofore, the month of November 5-December 3 has been designated as Re-enforcement Month by the Campaign Conservation Commission. During this month it is planned that every Baptist church in the South will call upon all its members who are not already participating in the Campaign and secure subscriptions from them covering the two remaining years of the movement, and cash offerings to the Campaign from all the members. Dr. L. R. Scarborough, of Fort Worth, Texas, who was general director of the original Campaign, has been elected to serve in that capacity for the Re-enforcement program, although the details are being worked out in the various states under the leadership of the secretaries of the state mission boards. It is hoped to secure several million dollars in additional subscriptions and several million in cash as well by December 1.

SCHOOL PATROLS MAKING GOOD MEN

By Roy Gibbons

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Mayor John Bauer is the man directly in charge of Chicago's Boy Safety Patrol.

This is an organization composed entirely of grammar school pupils, all below the age of 14, which has been reducing the number of fatal accidents to public school children in the city for more than a year.

Believing that the idea as established here might be of service to Middlesboro, he has told through NEA Service just how the organization was perfected, and with what success its efforts are meeting.

"We practically whipped Chicago's patrol into shape in a day," Bauer says. "Efforts of the mayor and the school board officials paved the way."

"Boys leap at the chance to serve as officers. We have never had any difficulty in supplying the full quota of patrolmen for any school."

"Besides saving life, members of the patrol go into their home communities as small right arms of the law. They instill a high regard for constituted authority among their playmates."

"The effect of the organization is most wholesome. In fact, I believe it is paving the way for a better generation of boyhood in Chicago."

"Before any boy is sworn in as a safety patrolman he fills out a pledge card, promising to live morally and mentally clean, and to serve as an example for the rest of his playmates to pattern after."

"He pledges himself to be brave and manly, and above all, watchful for the safety of his playmates and other children at all times.

"Autoists in the city, too, have been cooperative. Through educational campaigns, all auto drivers have been instructed to obey the directions of the patrol at school street crossings. We have very few complaints of violations."

"Oil that is necessary it seems, is to put the thing into operation. From then on it works automatically, providing you have the right sort of boys, and instruct them properly."

"I have found no inclination on the part of any Safety Patrol member to abuse the authority vested in him. Nor have I heard of complaints that such officers have annoyed motorists with unnecessary halting and blocking of traffic."

"The whole key to the situation seems to be in reaching the boy's heart. Make him feel that the badge given him by the city marks him out as a moral and physical example for the rest of his comrades, and you have started a real man to the top of your civic ladder."

"We here in Chicago would not, and could not get along without our Safety Patrol boys. They have saved the city thousands of dollars and almost 200 lives in scarcely over a year."

"In addition the Safety Patrol with its 3000 members constitutes just that many emissaries for clean living, who daily come in contact with future citizens of the city."

"What better results could be hoped for? We are making men."

The first clock is said to have been produced about 900 A. D. by Gerbert the Monk.

CHAPTER III

Always Clinch's little pale eyes searched the forest twilight in front of him; not a falling leaf escaped him; not a chipmunk.

The slightest noise behind him. He waited, turned slowly. Eve stood there.

Hell died in his pale eyes as she came to him, rested silently in his gentle embrace, returned his kiss, laid her flushed, sweet cheek against his unshaven face.

"Dad, darling?"

"Yes, my baby—"

"You're watching to kill Quintana. But there's no use watching any longer."

"Have the boys below got him?" he demanded.

"They got one of his gang. Byron Hastings is dead, Jim is badly hurt, Sid Hone, too—not so badly—"

"Where's Quintana?"

"Dad, he's gone. But it don't matter. See here!" She dug her slender hand into her breeches pocket and pulled out a little fistful of gems.

Clinch, his powerful arm closing her shoulders, looked dully at the jewels. "You see, dad, there's no use killing Quintana. These are the things he robbed you of."

"Taint them that matter—I'm glad you got them. I allus wanted you should be a great lady, girlie. Them's the tickets of admission. You put 'em in your pants. I gotta stay here a spell—"

"Dad! Take them!"

He took them, smiled, shoved them into his pocket.

"What is it, girlie?" he asked absently, his pale eyes searching the woods ahead.

"I've just told you," she said, "that the boys went in as far as Quintana's shanty. There was a dead man there too; but Quintana has gone."

Clinch said—not removing his eyes from the forest: "If any of them boys has let Quintana crawl through I'll kill him, too. Go on home, girlie. I gotta mosey—I gotta kinda loaf around for a spell—"

"Dad, I want you to come back with me—"

"You go home; you hear me, Eve? Tell Corny and Dick Berry to hook it for Owl Marsh and stop the Star Peak trails—both on 'em. Can Sid and Jim walk?"

"Well, let Harve take him on his back. You go too. You help fix Jimmy up at the house. He's a little fellow, Jimmy Hastings is. Harve can tote him. And you go along—"

"Dad, Quintana slys he means to kill you! What is the use of hurting him? You have what he took—"

"I gotta have more than he took. But even that ain't enough. He could not pay for all he ever done to me, girlie. I'm aintin' to draw on him on sight—"

Clinch's set visage relaxed into an alarming smile which flickered, faded in the wintry ferocity of his eyes.

"Dad—"

"G'wan home!" he interrupted her harshly. "You want that Hastings boy to bleed to death?"

She came up to him, not uttering a word, yet asking him with all the tenderness and eloquence of her eyes to leave this blood-trail where it lay and hunt no more.

He kissed her mouth, infinitely tender, smiled; then again grim and scowling.

"Go on home, you little sent, and do what I told ye, or by God, I'll cut a switch that will learn ye good. Never a word now! On yer way! Go on!"

Twice she turned to look back. The second time, Clinch was slowly walking into the woods straight ahead of him. She waited; saw him go in; and waited. After a while she continued on her way.

CHAPTER IV

And Clinch's mind was on her. All else—his watchfulness, his stealthy advance—all the alertness of eye and ear, all the subtlety, the cunning, the caution—were purely instinctive machineries.

Somewhere in this flooded twilight of gigantic trees was Jose Quintana. Knowing that, he dismissed that fact from his mind and turned his thoughts to Eve.

Sometimes his lips moved. They usually did when he was arguing with God or calling his Creator's attention to the justice of his case. His two cases—each, to him, a cause celebré: the matter of Harrod; the affairs of Quintana.

Many a time he had pleaded these two causes before the Most High. But now his thoughts were chiefly concerned with Eve—with the problem of her future—his master passion—this daughter of the dead wife he had loved.

He sighed unconsciously; halted. "Well, Lord," he concluded, in his worldless way, "my girlie has gotta have a chance if I gotta go to hell for it. That's sure as shootin' Amen."

At that instant he saw Quintana. Recognition was instant and mutual. Neither man stirred. Quintana was standing beside a giant hemlock. His back lay at his feet.

Clinch had halted—always the machineries—close to a great ironwood tree.

Probably both men knew that they could cover themselves before the other moved a muscle. Clinch's small, light eyes were blazing; Quintana's black eyes had become two slits.

Finally, "You dirty skunk," drawled Clinch in his agreeably misleading voice, "I got you now."

"Ah," said Quintana, "these has happen very nice like I expect. Always I say myself, yet a little patience, Jose, and one day you shall meet these fellow Clinch who has rob you, I am very thankful to the good God—"

He had made the slightest movements; instantly both men were behind their trees. Clinch, in the ferocious pride of woodcraft, laughed exultingly—filled the dim and spectral forest with his roar of laughter.

"Quintana," he called out, "you are going to cash in. Savvy? You are going to hop off. And first you gotta hear why. It ain't for the stuff. Naw! I hooked it off you; you hooked it off me; now I got it again. That's all square. No taint that grudge, you green livered whelp of a cross-breed, still-born slut, No! It is because you laid the theft of your dirty little finger onto my girlie, N' now you gotta hop!"

Quintana's sinister fighter was his retort. Then: "You damfool Clinch he said, 'I got in my pocket what you rob me of. Now I kill you, and then I feel very well. I go home, live like some kings; yes. But you,' he sneered, 'you shall not go home never no more. No. You shall remain in these damn wood like very dead old rat that is all wormy. He! I got a million francs. Five million, franc in my pocket. You shall learn what it cost to rob Jose Quintana! Understand?"

"You liar," said Clinch contemptuously. "I got them fools in my pocket—"

Quintana's derisive laugh cut him short: "I give you thee Flaming Jewel if you show me you got my gems in you pants pocket!"

"I'll show you. Lay down your rifle so's I see the stock."

"First you, my friend Mike," said Quintana cautiously.

Clinch took his rifle by the muzzle and shoved the stock into view so that Quintana could see it without moving.

To his surprise, Quintana did the same, then coolly stepped a pace outside the shelter of his hemlock stump. "You show me now!" he called. Clinch stepped into view, dug into his pocket, and, cupping both hands, displayed a glittering heap of gems.

"I wanted you should know who's got 'em," he said, "before you drop. It will give you something to think over in hell."

Quintana's eyes had become slits again. Neither man stirred. Then:

"So you are buzzard, eh, Clinch? You fed on dead men's pockets, eh? You and Sard somewhere and you feed." He held up the morocco case, emblazoned with the arms of the Grand Duchess of Esthonia, and shook it at Clinch.

"In there is my share. Not all. Very quick, now, I take yours, too—"

Clinch vanished and so did his rifle and Quintana's bullet struck the moss where the stock had rested.

"You black crow!" jeered Clinch, laughing. "I need that empty case of yours. And I'm going after it. But it is because your filthy claw touched my girlie that you gotta hop!"

Twilight lay over the phantom wood, touching with pallid tints the flooded shelter.

So far only that one shot had been fired. Both men were still maneuvering, always creeping in circles and always lining some great tree for shelter.

Now, the gathering dusk was making them bolder and swifter; and twice, already, Clinch caught the shadow of a fading edge of something that vanished against the shadows too swiftly for a shot.

Now Quintana, keeping a tree in line, brushed with his lithe back, a leafless moss-bush that stood swaying as he avoided it.

Instantly a stealthy hope seized him and he slipped out of his coat, spread it on the bush, set his naked branches swinging, and darted to his tree.

Waiting, he saw that the gray blot the bush with his rifle barrel, then his coat made in the dusk was still moving a little—just vibrating a little bit in the twilight. He touched crouched almost flat.

Suddenly the red crash of a rifle lit up Clinch's visage for a fraction of a second. And Quintana's bullet smashed Clinch between the eyes.

Kentucky Baptist Sunday School Work

Another year of glorious achievements in the Sunday school field is coming to a close. It has been the most successful year in the history of the state. Interest has been good in every section and an ever enlarging number of pastors and superintendents are doing their best thinking, along with lines of methods of organization and administration, to get the Bible taught.

The enrollment of the Baptist Sunday schools has reached approximately 200,000 as against an estimate of 140,000 two years ago. The following schools now have an enrollment in excess of one thousand:

|                        |      |
|------------------------|------|
| Walnut St., Louisville | 1567 |
| First, Mayfield        | 1480 |
| Calvary, Lexington     | 1248 |
| Danville               | 1170 |
| First Middlesboro      | 1143 |
| First Newport          | 1132 |
| First Hopkinsville     | 1087 |
| Third Owensboro        | 1019 |

There are twenty-one schools having an enrollment of between 500 and 1000, but space forbids naming them. The Sunday School Board has reached two standards of excellence for our Sunday schools to attain. Only one in Kentucky, Berea, has attained the Advanced Standard. The following twenty-one have attained the First Standard:

Berea; Madison Avenue Covington; Yuthlana; Dover; Danville; Elizabethtown; New Hope; Harmony; Kenton; Harlan; Hazard; Audubon; Henderson; Jellico; Latonia; Lewisburg; Baptist Tabernacle, Louisville; Mentor; Third, Owensboro; Pointdexter; Rocky Ridge; First, Somerset; and Dallasburg, Wheatley.

Many other lack only a few points and expect to qualify in the near future. We are set definitely on having 100 standard schools during the coming year.

One of the most important features of the work is that of training our officers and teachers. At the present time we cannot give the total number of teacher training awards but the total will likely go beyond 4500. This will be an increase over the year.

The training work in our schools and colleges is one of the most gratifying reports. The ten schools whose students co-operated in the work had a total of 834 awards. The ranking of the schools is as follows:

|                                     |     |
|-------------------------------------|-----|
| Cumberland College                  | 434 |
| Russell Creek Academy               | 157 |
| State Normal College, Bowling Green | 91  |
| Barbourville Institute              | 67  |
| Hazard Institute                    | 26  |
| Georgetown College                  | 27  |
| Bethel Woman's College              | 13  |
| Magoffin Institute                  | 6   |
| Business University                 | 3   |

During this school year we expect these totals to run to 1200 or 1500. More and more our schools are emphasizing the importance of training the students for service in the home church.

There are now three workers, W. A. Gardiner, general Sunday school secretary; Mrs. W. A. Gardiner, elementary secretary, and Mr. G. W. Jones, field worker for Southeast Kentucky. We are hoping that the Sunday School Board will make us such a proposition on the support of rural workers that our Board will deem it wise to employ three additional men to give their time to the country churches.

Our efficient office secretary is Miss Lucile Dotson, daughter of our beloved preacher, James L. Dotson. She looks after the office in the absence of the secretary and helps us with the correspondence, orders, awards, keeps our files (six of them) and handles orders for literature and does whatever else may arise for her to do. You see she has an abundance of work.

Kentucky Sunday school workers do not mean to be outdistanced by those of the other states but we will have to double our efforts the coming year. Some of the states have large numbers of paid workers and they are alive and enthusiastic.

Associational. We are organizing Baptist Sunday School Conventions in the various district associations. A plan for these organizations will be off the press at an early date.

District: The State is being divided into four districts and the plan is to have an annual Baptist Sunday School convention in each, at which time every phase of the work will be emphasized. The first one will be for Southeast Kentucky and will be held at Corbin March 13, and 14. The next will be for West Kentucky and will be held at Russellville July 13, 14 and 15. Others will be arranged for as soon as it is feasible.

State: An annual Conference of Superintendents will be held at Louisville February 18-21. This proved to be a great success last year and we are expecting an even better meeting next February. Every church should send its superintendent with all expenses paid.

REV. W. A. GARDINER

MRS. W. A. GARDINER

Setting our faces to the future with determination to do our best we can expect large returns in soul winning.

and enlistment through the Sunday schools. Let us make the coming year one of the glorious achievements surpassing the accomplishments of the past.

W. A. GARDINER,
Baptist Sunday School Secretary.

The Western Recorder

The Western Recorder is probably the oldest Baptist paper in the South, its age being ninety-eight years. It has from the beginning been a virile and resourceful publication. It has always stood firmly for the fundamental principles of the evangelical faith as held by the Baptist people.

The Western Recorder has had as its editors distinguished and able men. Outstanding among these gentlemen still well remembered by the Baptists of Kentucky and of the South as well as by the many evangelical Christians of other bodies. There was the brilliant Dr. T. T. Eaton, who during much of the period of his long pastorate of Walnut street Church of Louisville, was editor of the Western Recorder. Dr. C. M. Thompson became editor for a brief period and was succeeded by Dr. J. W. Porter, pastor of the First Baptist church at Lexington, who remained editor of the profits, help to make a larger and better Recorder, the Board of Managers, empowered by the Board of Missions, six months ago, elected the Hon. W. A. Frost, who has for three years been president of the general association, as business manager. Mr. Frost accepted the position and installed an up-to-date small printing plant. The result in mechanical beauty and added space in the Western Recorder partially indicates what a fine thing Kentucky Baptists did when they elected Mr. Frost business manager.

At the beginning of 1921, Dr. Porter gave up the editorship and Dr. V. I. Masters, who for years had been the editorial secretary of the Baptist Home Mission Board of Atlanta, Ga., was called to the Recorder editorship. The present editor of the paper is a native of South Carolina and has devoted much of his life to editorial service and educational publicity. Dr. Masters has been most heartily received by Kentucky Baptists and the broad Recorder constituency and the paper is maintaining well its broad influence under his editorship.

The Western Recorder and the Baptist World were bought by the Baptists of Kentucky immediately preceding the coming of the new editor and the two papers merged into one, retaining as the name of the publication the long-time honored name, Western Recorder. Both the Baptist World and the Western Recorder had, in addition to the Kentucky list, a large Southwide subscriber - constituency. About half of the Baptist ministers in the South, who are actively engaged in Christian work, are subscribers of this historic weekly. Though it is owned by the Kentucky Baptists, and renders well the intimate service required by the state, its large Southwide constituency has always made it able to do a Southwide service that is being more and more appreciated by the denominations at large. The interstate circulation is growing all the while and at the same time there is a steady increase in the subscription list in Kentucky. It is expected that large interest shall be given to the increased circulation of the Recorder throughout the state, by special attention to this subject at the General Association at Middlesboro.

Deciding that it was better to own a printing plant that could work for Baptists and others, and through its

There are never so many problems as now that needed treatment from a definite religious standpoint. It was never so important as now that the Christian people should read their denominational papers. There are questions of Christian faith that cannot possibly be emphasized and driven home by the secular press, though the urban press can do a service of untold value. It should be a matter of gratitude to the Christian community at large in Kentucky, that in the Western Recorder there is being sent out from a religious journal than which there is no better Christian paper in America, or one that is more dynamic and more fully committed to the maintenance of the fundamentals of the faith of our fathers, who made this American civilization possible.

How Many People Do You Keep From Going to Church?

Did you ever consider that what YOU do affects not only YOU but others—perhaps some one that you know nothing of?

Have YOU thought how inconsistent it is for YOU to insist that the youngsters trot along while YOU remain at home?

Somewhere someone gauges life by your living it. It may not be YOUR own family—it may be the neighbor's daughter or son—or perhaps YOUR neighbor and his wife feel it all right to do or not to do things according to YOUR actions.

So, when YOU refuse or neglect to attend Divine Worship—when the clangor of the church bells fails to bring YOU to the place where men and women publicly acknowledge the sovereignty of Jesus Christ—when YOU hold back, YOUR action is a barrier holding back others.

An Outline of Some Baptist Accomplishments

By C. M. Thompson, Corresponding Secretary

When Southern Baptists successfully launched their 75 Million Campaign they performed a feat unparalleled in the annals of Religious History. When it is remembered that each separate church is a sovereign body in itself and outside organizations for co-operative purpose can exercise only an advisory function with reference to these churches, it was freely predicted, by those of other religious faiths, that this great enterprise was doomed to failure. They affirmed that the independence of each organization precluded the possibility of united endeavor and sustained co-operation. The goal before Southern Baptist was securing within the limits of one week, pledges for $75,000,000. This goal was reached and passed for they secured $11,000,000.00 and of this amount $35,152,211.09 had been raised up to May 1, 1922.

During these first three marvelous years of the campaign, which closed April 30, 1922, Southern Baptist forces baptized 150,000 more converts than they did in the three years preceding, gained 3,000 new Sunday Schools and 400,000 pupils, enhanced the value of their local church property by $33,000,000, enlarged their contributions to local causes by $22,390,000, gave $18,939,802.00 more to Missions and benevolence, and increased their contributions to all causes in the three years by $43,480,490.00. Other items in the Campaign program include increasing the number of Baptist Hospitals from twelve to nineteen, with three others under construction and four more definitely planned, strengthening all of the nineteen Baptist orphanages, the placing of nine million dollars in our 119 Baptist Educational Institutions; the enrollment there of 2,500 students for the ministry and the enlistment of more than 16,000 young people in definite forms of Christian service.

Since the Campaign began the Foreign Mission Board has sent out 208 new missionaries, with another large contingent under appointment to sail this season. The native workers have increased from 771 to 1173, 117 new churches, have been organized, 21,723 baptisms are reported, 211 new Sunday Schools organized and 529,642 treatments administered by medical missionaries.

During this same period the Home Mission Board has employed on its own account and through its co-operative work an average of 1,465 missionaries and reports for that period 134,832 baptisms, 213,371 additions to the churches, 2,276 Sunday Schools and 759 churches organized, 1,409 houses of worship built or repaired and 9,523 volunteers for special Christian service.

C. M. THOMPSON

Kentucky Baptists have played an important part in securing these results. They were asked to give $6,500,000 and actually secured pledges for $7,400,000. During the three years they have raised $3,788,693.15. This amount is distributed as follows:

|                           |       |             |
|---------------------------|-------|-------------|
| Foreign Missions          | ..... | $33,209.37 |
| Home Missions             | ..... | 478,885.16  |
| Education, (undesignated) | ..... | $38,789.62 |
| Education (designated)    | ..... | $6,300.12  |
| State Missions            | ..... | 528,548.00  |
| Orphanages                | ..... | 222,835.75  |
| Hospital                  | ..... | 140,588.88  |

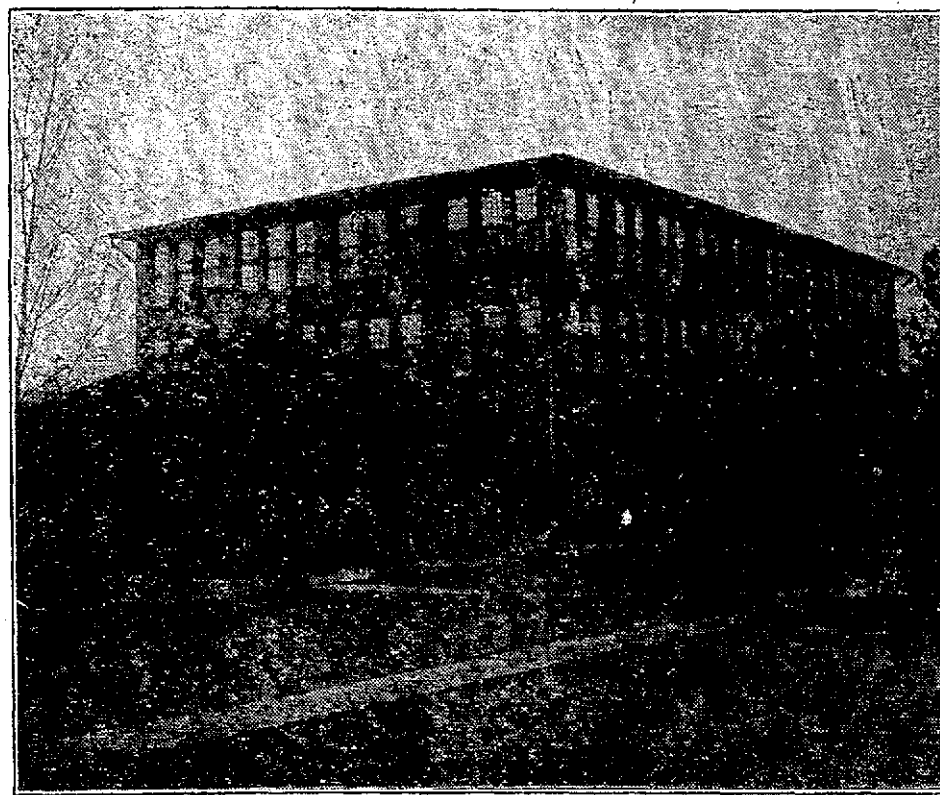

000.00 and a fraction less than nine tenths of one per cent to raise in excess of $3,788,693.15. The Campaign ushered in a new day to Kentucky Baptists. All the Kingdom interests have experienced marked advancement.

The forces are united as never before, and the outlook was never so bright. Last year Kentucky Baptists led every state in the South in giving and the report that will be presented to the General Association at Middlesboro will be the best ever given at an annual meeting.

Foreign-born farmers are most numerous in the north central states. There are few in the south except in Texas.

|----------------------------------------|-------|------------|
| Association Missions (designated)      | ..... | 225,795.30 |
| Ministerial Relief                     | ..... | 118,844.21 |
| Church Building (Designated, Kentucky) | ..... | 34,171.40  |
| Church Building Loan Fund (Home Board) | ..... | 18,067.78  |
| Famine Relief and Miscellaneous        | ..... | 50,903.09  |
| Requests for Trust funds               | ..... | 18,694.95  |
| Ministerial Education                  | ..... | 3,059.52   |

The actual cost of launching the 75 Million Campaign enterprise, the securing of pledges and the raising of the money seems incredible. It cost the State Board of Missions less than a fraction of one-third of one percent to secure pledges aggregating $7,400,000.

Bethel Woman's College closed May 29, with an enrollment of one hundred and eighty-nine, establishing a new record in attendance in the sixty-eight years of its history. During the summer a fourth story was added to the West dormitory making it uniform with that on the East and giving room for more students and larger class rooms. The faculty was increased by three teachers, one of whom has charge of the Bible teaching, as well as the religious activities of the College. This is the most forward step the College has taken recently. The fall session opened September 1, with all places filled by students from nine states and one foreign country. The trustees and president of the College are doing their best to make Bethel Woman's College the pride of Kentucky Baptists. The entire campaign appropriation of one hundred thousand dollars has been expended in new buildings and a bond issue is being retired as the annual payments come in. The improvements include two new dormitories, a gymnasium, swimming pool, tennis courts and modern equipment.

B.Y.P.U. WORK IN KENTUCKY

Slowly but gradually the B. Y. P. U. work in the state is beginning to shape up into some semblance of organized effort. The state secretary has been very busy during the past year getting acquainted with the field and doing work with many local unions. At the last meeting of the General Association only 202 B. Y. P. U's were reported as being on file in the state secretary's office. This year there are 500 reported and the secretary feels confident there are many others who have not been reported to his office.

The seventh annual meeting of the state B. Y. P. U. convention which was held at Covington was a great success both in numbers and in spiritual power. The conventions of the B. Y. P. U. of Kentucky have been treated in the manifestation of the presence of the Holy Spirit and this year was no exception. Over seven hundred out-of-town delegates were registered. The next convention meets with the Walnut Street Baptist church at Louisville, April 19 to 22, 1923.

The state B. Y. P. U. secretary is working on the basis of a slow but sure policy. He hopes to build a great B. Y. P. U. spirit throughout the state, which will be a lasting power for God in the hearts and lives of the young people who look to him for leadership. The B. Y. P. U. as the training department of the church, is building for the future a great loyal host of consecrated church members. May God bless its every effort to Him.

FAVORS ABOLITION FIELD GOALS; M'MILLIN'S UNIQUE SUGGESTION

By "Bo" McMillin

All American Quarterback

Of the two most noticeable changes in the football rules this season the change from try for goal after touchdown to try for point after touchdown has caused considerable comment and at the present time seems to be the jester of football.

From my experience at the game, which runs over a period of 12 years, I must say that I am greatly opposed to this ruling and would like to see the try for point after touchdown abolished entirely.

As it stands now it will cause the coaches to develop better place and drop kickers and this takes the life out of the game when you depend so much on individual effort.

A team should win on the merits of team work alone and not through the individual work of one player. The new play does not help the game when it comes to measuring the strength of the contesting elevens, as nine out of ten times a kick will be tried in preference to another play. This will also cause the time of playing to be slowed to a great extent.

If it is deemed necessary to have some method whereby a try for the additional point after touchdown will be granted, I would prefer going back to the old play where the team making the score has to kick the ball out where the line was crossed. This adds more to the pep of the game yet there is the individual work in evidence.

I am also in favor of doing away with all try for goals from the field and believe in letting the coaches depend upon real football to win. If an eleven is to win don't you think it much better to let them make a touchdown and not have to depend upon a player kicking a drop or a placekick. There are times when one team might and the opposing team not over fifty, yet the latter win by a goal if it should happen to get the breaks.

The new ruling on the shift play says THAT THE PLAYER MUST NOT ONLY HAVE BOTH FEET STATUARY ON THE GROUND, BUT MUST COME TO A FULL STOP SO THAT WHEN HE STARTS OFF FROM A STANDSTILL.

The above modification of the old rule I think is a big step forward in improving the game. The former reading of the rule was only a blind for the back field to get in motion before the ball was snapped.

I feel confident that the above statement will be proven this year by the abandonment of all shift formations.

It has been the tendency of the rules committee to alter the rules each year so as to lessen the handicap on the smaller schools. The smaller colleges have not been able to successfully compete with the larger institutions using the shift play because of the reason that it takes two or more years to develop a shift that will function.

If Dempsey can't get mad enough to fight why not appoint an assistant champion?

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE RAILROAD CO.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

LOUISVILLE, KY.

November 3, 1922

W. L. MAPOTHER, President

TO THE FORMER SHOPMEN OF THE LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE RAILROAD CO.

Reports are being constantly made to you that officials of this company have been in various conferences with your representatives with a view to a settlement of the strike, and that the company is favorably considering taking the men back upon terms different from those heretofore announced. These reports are false. Since the conference with your General Chairman and his committee, held on September 16, 1922, in which the company refused to recede from its original position, and made a public announcement to that effect, there have been no further such conferences and nothing has been said or done by any railroad official that would indicate any change in the company's policy concerning the re-employment of striking employees announced at the beginning of the strike. This policy consistently has been, still is, and will continue to be, that only such of its former employees as the company can properly use will be re-employed and that these will be treated as new employees.

The places left are now comparatively few, as the company at this time has 14,000 mechanical employees in its service with whom it has concluded an agreement through their chosen representatives. I need hardly repeat, what has heretofore been often stated, that the loyal men who remained in the service, the new ones who have entered our employ since the strike and those who shall hereafter do so will be protected to the limit.

We have refrained for some time from noting these unfounded reports and are making this final statement now in justice both to the company and to hopes of a different adjustment those who are being misled into false

Respectfully,
W. L. MAPOTHER, President.

THE SOUTHERN BAPTIST THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

DR. H. Y. MULLINS,
President T. S. B. T. Seminary, and President Sou. Baptist Convention.

The Seminary has just opened with the largest attendance in its history. There are enrolled already nearly 300 students. These are men preparing for the ministry, with very few exceptions. In addition to these men, there are more than two hundred women taking courses in our class rooms. In part they come from the Woman's Training School and in part they are wives of married students.

The Seminary is a hive of activity. The courses it gives combine the scholarly and the practical. The faculty is large and in every way capable for its great work. Kentucky has a large number of students in the student body taking rank with the best. The school is planning to erect new buildings on its new location in the course of a year or so.

The institution is growing in popularity in Northern States because of its well-known loyalty to the Bible and to the evangelical and Baptist faith. The institution stands for the highest ideals of scholarship and at the same time for the practical in its training for the ministry.

Prospective students should correspond with President H. Y. Mullins, or with Mr. D. Pressley Smith, treasurer of the Student's Fund.

PROPOSED KENTUCKY BAPTIST HOSPITAL

By M. P. Hunt
Pastor Broadway Baptist Church, Louisville.

After years of waiting the plans for the Kentucky Baptist Hospital are at last ready.

The plans, as originally outlined, have had to be modified, due primarily to the rise in the cost of building to fully twice that it was when the movement was initiated. The working out of plans for a $400 plan has proven a much bigger task than was dreamed of by the trustees when the task was undertaken some eight months ago. But the plans as finally perfected represent the last word in hospital architecture. The Baptists of Kentucky are to get the most possible and satisfactory ventilation. Several of the rooms will have private bath. Every room will have running water. The fifth floor will be utilized entirely for obstetrical cases. On this floor in addition to the private rooms and small wards, will be located the delivery rooms, wash rooms, nursery with modern sanitary bath for the infants.

On the sixth floor will be three fine operating rooms with their accessory rooms. These will be in the front, facing north, which is the ideal orientation for this department.

The laboratory, the X-ray, radium, fluoroscopic, cystoscopic, and orthopedic rooms will all be on this floor. These will be far in advance of anysible for their money. It will contain every detail for convenient and efficient operation. The building will be six stories, and in the shape of the letter T. It will have a frontage of 175 feet and a depth of 105 feet, and will have a 140-bed capacity.

In the basement will be the kitchen, cafeteria, dining rooms, storage rooms, morgue and pharmacy. The front of the first floor will be given over to lobby, office, reception rooms, nurses and physicians' rooms, while in the rear will be the men's wards. No ward will have more than four beds. On every floor will be found the necessary utility rooms, diet kitchen, toilet and bath rooms.

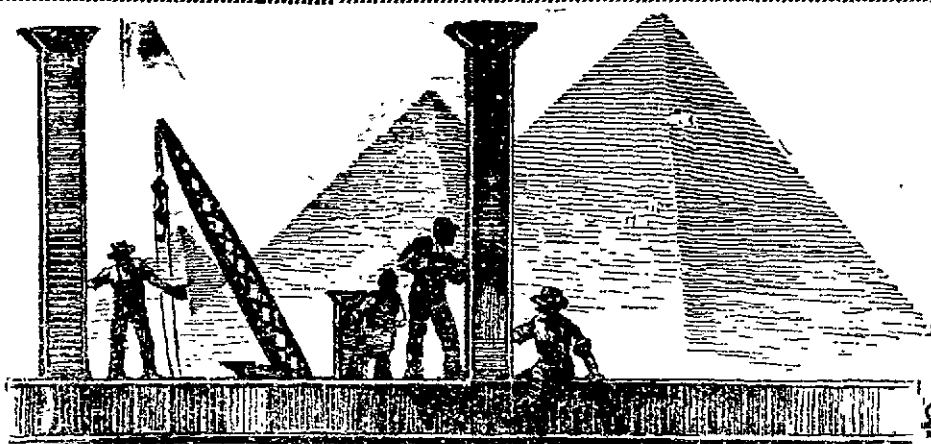

The second floor will be subdivided throughout in wards of from two to four beds each. The third and fourth floors will be divided into private rooms of ample size with ample light thing in any hospital in Louisville at the present time. At the east and west end of the building will be sun porches of ample size for each floor.

The building will have two stair ways and two elevators. Stairs and elevators will be separate from each other. The boiler room, laundry, and sterilizing department, carpenter shop, will be in a separate building.

The exterior of the building will be carried out in Renaissance period, and will be very attractive. Light gray brick, with white stone or terra cotta trimmings will be the general color scheme.

The magnificent grounds with ample shade and shrubbery will be landscaped to add to the beauty of the situation. It is now hoped that in the next few weeks the contract may be let and that a year from now it may be ready for occupancy.

HISTORY OF BARBOURVILLE BAPTIST INSTITUTE

The Barbourville Baptist Institute was founded by the Cumberland River Baptist church. The first sessions were held in the church house, but later the public school building was rented for the use of the school. The institute was so well patronized from the beginning that the trustees determined to give it a permanent house, so in 1902 a small brick building was erected on the present campus. The school labored under many discouragements, but finally the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention came to its aid. Through the assistance of the board and generosity of its friends the Administration Building has been enlarged and two dormitories have been erected.

It is the aim of the school to enlarge the whole plant to meet the ever increasing body of students. The administration building needs to be remodeled to make more classrooms. The auditorium can be made into class rooms and additional rooms are needed at each end of the building. The addition that is already going up in the rear will be used for the auditorium and laboratories. A heating plant will be put in this new building that will heat the two dormitories which also need to be enlarged to twice their size to adequately care for the large number who come in after the country schools have closed at Christmas.

The president, Oscar L. Minks, is a product of Lily Laurel County, having been educated at Williamsburg Institute (now Cumberland College), Chicago University, Oskaloosa University and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. His teaching experience has been varied from country schools to honored fellowships in Universities of Theology and Philosophy. He has the degrees of A. B., A. M., Th. M., and Ph. D. With his zeal, enthusiasm and determination for a permanent endowment we feel sure it will be realized in the near future. He teaches English, History and Bible, and has a Gold Seal Diploma of the Conventional Normal Course.

Miss O. L. Minks is married to Brown Hall for Girls and will see that the tables are furnished with a good supply of wholesome foods, for she is desirous that all students get plenty. She will also teach Domestic Science.

It is useless to say she gives no instruction to her efficient and much respected cook, Aunt Jane Nolan, who is not to be equaled anywhere. We are more than proud to have Aunt Jane back with us after a year's absence, for Aunt Jane in the kitchen is enough said for those who expect good meals at B. B. I.

Miss Emma Johnson will have charge of the Music Department which includes piano, voice, violin. She studied these in Owensboro College and has taught them successfully for six years. She is a graduate of the Louisville Conservatory of Music, having studied piano and voice there.

Professor Isham Lee Wilson, A. B., is from Carson and Newman College, Jefferson City, Tenn. He is a native of East Tennessee. He has spent two years in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and hopes to complete his Th. B. degree in summer school. He comes to us with successful experience. Mr. Wilson will be manager of the Boys' Hall and head of the Departments of Latin and Mathematics. He is one who has worked his way through college and is in a position to sympathize with the youth struggling for an education. We were fortunate in getting the services of such a man. He also holds a post graduate diploma of the Convention Normal Course.

Miss Isham Lee Wilson, Bachelor of Missionary Training from the Baptist Women's Missionary Union Training School, has worked successfully under the State Board in Illinois as a Sunday school and Baptist Young People's Union field workers. She is a teacher of several years' experience and holds a First Grade certificate from Illinois. Mrs. Wilson will teach fourth, fifth and sixth grades. She, too, has the post graduate diploma in the Sunday School Normal Course.

Ernest L. Miller, one of our own Knox County boys, will be in charge of the Grammar School. He is a graduate of Berea College Normal, and will assist in the Academic Department. His success as a teacher is attested by five years of efficient teaching. He will also be the Director of Athletics.

Miss E. C. Bunnell is the efficient teacher of the primary grades. She is a graduate of Vine Grove High School and has had 20 years' successful teaching.

BARBOURVILLE BUSINESS SCHOOL

Affiliated With Barbourville Baptist Institute

This school has been established for the purpose of training young men and women who aspire for the higher positions in life. Since the organization of this school scores of students have gone out in the world and are making good in business offices.

This course is under the supervision and instruction of Clarence E. Bunnell. Mr. Bunnell is a member of the Expert Accounting Department of Draughton's Practical Business College. He is also a member of the Draughton Consulting Accounting Association of Nashville and St. Louis, carrying with it the degree of Bachelor of Accounts. He has had many years' experience in teaching this famous Draughton course in bookkeeping and shorthand and has many students even this and the adjoining states who are making good in business life. Many young men and women have been helped to success through his efforts. He is also a practical bookkeeper and accountant, having had charge of the books for some of the largest corporations in the United States. He has studied the needs of business men along these lines and gives special and practical work in opening and in closing, declaring profits, rendering statements for corporations, joint stock companies, partnerships and wholesale concerns.

A hard working student who has made up his mind to master bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting for the purpose of making good in life need go no further than the Barbourville Business School. Students graduating are allowed one high unit for the course in stenography and one high school unit for the course in bookkeeping.

AFTER SUNSET

Sunset has faded and the flush-checked clouds have changed to wisps of gray above the hill. Silence, a summer silence, warm and still. Broods on the meadows where the mist enshrouds. The quiet hedgerow and the watchful trees. That stand austere, unmoved by the breeze. The noises of the day sink on the air. Dying in the distance whispers, and the sound of little, unheard voices all around. Creeps on the waiting senses, here and there. The tender humming of the swallow-tailed flies. Drums overhead and fades and sinks and dies. From the dim shadowed tangle of the grass. The multitudinous songs of minute things. Like the faint music of small, muted strings. Plucked by invisible hands, rise, fall and pass. And then, again come silence and the white. Innumerable jewels of the night.

If You Are Well Bred

You know that when a man is introduced to a woman it is for her to offer her hand if she wishes to shake hands. But if the man makes the move to do so it is rude of her to ignore it, just as it is rude to repel any offer of friendliness. As a rule, a woman does not shake hands with a man upon meeting him if he is an entire stranger, but if she is the hostess she welcomes all guests and friends with a handshake.

"At Bethel College for men, at Russellville, Ky., the opening has been very encouraging. The number is the same as last year, but the percentage of college men to high school students has been largely increased. The construction of the new $50,000 dormitory is one-third finished, and will give the school room for possible growth next fall. Every possible space about the campus, including the sixteen houses for married ministerial students, is packed to the utmost."

Kentucky Baptists have peculiar reasons to be grateful to God. By His grace they are setting a most worthy example of fidelity to His truth and willingness to follow the leadership of the Holy Spirit in doing His work. They should come together in large numbers in Middlesboro with thanksgiving in their hearts and songs of praise on their lips. This session of the General Association should be characterized by a spirit of grateful humility and genuine consecration. Come praying that God may be in the midst of His people to bless and to lead on to greater achievements.

CUMBERLAND COLLEGE

The thirty-fifth annual session of the Cumberland College opened September 3. This institution gives work in the eight grammar grades, four years of high school and two years of college work. In addition a number of special courses are offered, including domestic science, manual training, dramatic art, music, both vocal and instrumental, painting and free-hand drawing. It also gives one of the best normal courses in the state.

Cumberland College possesses a faculty of exceptionally strong and consecrated men and women. Recent additions to this teaching force are: Miss Kate Rickman, Paris, Tenn., A. B., Georgetown College, instructor in home economics and physical director of women; Miss Mary Gaines, A. B., University of Alabama, instructor in English and Expression; Miss Lillian Ellison, A. B., Cornell, teacher of the Third and Fourth grades.

Opening day this fall marked the largest enrollment in the history of the institution for this season of the year. Every class room is crowded, some classes being divided into three sections. Although the capacity of the boys' dormitory, Felix Hall, was doubled last year, it will be filled this year. Intensive use of the two girls' dormitories this fall has made room for some thirty more than last year, yet every room is taken.

One encouraging feature of the growth of this school is the rapid increase in the College department. This enrollment now reaches nearly one hundred and will doubtless surpass that mark during the year. These students also appear to be better prepared for college work than heretofore and more determined to make good in their classes. After the few days of unrest incident to classification and assignments we have settled down to what promises to be our best year's work.

The opening enrollment was as follows:

|             | Ma | Wa | Total |
|-------------|----|----|-------|
| College     | 40 | 41 | 81    |
| Preparatory | 90 | 78 | 168   |
| Normal      | 13 | 27 | 42    |
| Grades      | 60 | 76 | 136   |
| Specials    | 6  | 18 | 24    |

Total

An interesting aspect of this enrollment is the distribution of the students as revealed by the registrar's records. Thirty-five counties, in Kentucky, nine States and one foreign country are represented. From Philadelphia to Los Angeles and from Michigan to Florida young men and women have come, drawn by this school's reputation for academic efficiency and spiritual atmosphere. The Baptists of Kentucky have reason to be grateful to God that they have in Cumberland College, at Williamsburg an institution of learning second to none in the quality of work offered and superior to many in steadfast adherence to the fundamental faith of our fathers.
